

A person I respect: Long Interview Questions

Reduced sounds: dju – do you y' – you / your

Underline the important words and remember to lengthen the sound of the important words

1. Is there anyone in your family you respect?
2. Who is this person you respect?
3. Why do you respect this person?
4. Have you always respected this person?
5. When did you first realise how important this person is to you?
6. Do you have a friend you particularly respect?
7. How come you respect this person?
8. Do you get respect from others?
9. Why do you think they respect you?
10. Is it difficult to earn respect from others?
11. What qualities in you do you want others to notice and respect?
12. What qualities in you do you want to change?
13. Do you respect your teachers?
14. Who do you particularly respect?
15. Which teacher don't you respect?
16. Why don't you respect this teacher?
17. What advice would you have for this teacher?
18. Which person in the media is well-respected at the moment?
19. Why is this person well-respected?
20. Do you have any role models?
21. Do you think it is important to have role-models?
22. Do you think teen idols are admired?
23. Why are they so much admired by their fans?
24. Do you think you are influenced by the media?
25. Are teen idols admired by your grandparents' generation?
26. Do you think there is a gap in expectations between your generation and your grandparents'?
27. What about a person you admire? Is there anyone you admire at the moment?
28. Is there anyone you admire in your class?
29. Who did you used to admire when you were very young?
30. Why did you admire them so much?
31. Why don't you admire them now?
32. Which person do you want to meet?
33. What would you say to this person?
34. Is there anyone's footsteps you want to follow?

Useful expressions:

to admire	someone you look up to, love, or want to be like e.g. parent, film star,
to respect	someone you see as having higher standards (and often in authority) e.g. boss, teacher
to get/earn respect (from others)	to be well-respected (by others)

a role model	someone to look up to and follow in their footsteps
a teen idol	a teenage pop celebrity loved by the younger generation